Bilan moral

Rapport d'activité 2022

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are poor has increased. The number of people who live on less than $1 a day has increased from 1.1 billion in 1981 to 1.5 billion in 1999. The number of people who live on less than $2 a day has increased from 2.1 billion in 1981 to 2.5 billion in 1999.

There are many reasons for this. One reason is that the world's population has increased. The world's population has increased from 5 billion in 1981 to 6 billion in 1999. This means that there are more people in the world who need food and shelter.

Another reason is that the world's economy has not grown fast enough. The world's economy has grown, but not fast enough to keep up with the world's population. This means that there are not enough jobs in the world to support all the people who need them.

There are also many other reasons for this. One reason is that the world's resources are being used up. The world's resources are being used up, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

Another reason is that the world's environment is being destroyed. The world's environment is being destroyed, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

There are many other reasons for this. One reason is that the world's governments are not doing enough to help the poor. The world's governments are not doing enough to help the poor, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

Another reason is that the world's people are not working together. The world's people are not working together, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

There are many other reasons for this. One reason is that the world's people are not sharing their resources. The world's people are not sharing their resources, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

Another reason is that the world's people are not helping each other. The world's people are not helping each other, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.

There are many other reasons for this. One reason is that the world's people are not caring for each other. The world's people are not caring for each other, and this means that there are not enough resources to support all the people who need them.
